

Tax Trainee

ByrneWallace Tax Advisors

ByrneWallace, a leading Irish law firm providing services to high profile companies, financial institutions and government bodies in relation to complex legal transactions, is seeking a Tax Trainee to work as part of our team within the Dublin office in relation to both compliance and consultancy services across a diverse range of clients and industry sectors

The Position

As the tax team is constantly growing, you will benefit from working in an environment normally only found in small practice, where you have direct access to partners, while also being exposed to some of the largest property and Merger and Acquisitions transactions carried out in Ireland each year.

As a tax trainee your duties will include:

1. Preparation of income tax, corporation tax, VAT, CGT, CAT and payroll returns in an efficient and accurate manner;
2. Liaising with clients, colleagues and Revenue to ensure the tax returns are filed with Revenue and any liability/refund due is paid/refunded in a timely manner; and
3. Dealing with ad-hoc tax related tax matters as directed by more senior team members;

The Individual

1. You will be interested in pursuing or have already commenced studying for the Irish Tax Institute's Chartered Tax Adviser qualification;
2. You will also have excellent interpersonal and communication skills with the ability to understand complicated tax matters;
3. An ability to work within deadlines and under pressure during busy times;
4. An ability to work independently as well as part of a team while managing multiple client relationships;

Qualification & Skills

1. Experience using Microsoft Word and Excel is essential;
2. Previous experience using accounting and tax software packages (such as Alphatax and Sage Tax Pro) is highly desirable;

Interested candidates should submit their CV to Beth Onslow at bonslow@byrnewallace.com